OPS To Lift Price Tops On Beef Cuts

Washington, (AP)—Price officials said last night they expect to let retail ceilings on many beef cuts increase up to two cents a pound.

But prices for some types of beef, notably hamburger, probably will be unchanged; and a few cuts, such as loins, may go down.

Officials of the Office of Price Stabilization (OPS) said many beef price ceilings will have to be boosted to preserve a profit for the meat industry. A profit margin is required under the new defense production act which provides for price, wage and rent controls.

The officials explained that prices for cattle hides are down 25 per cent below ceiling levels, and tallow is down 33 per cent. Low prices on these two beef byproducts will force an increase in meat prices to maintain the required profit level, they said.

Earlier yesterday, the White House made it clear President Truman, in a special message to Congress, will urge changes in the new controls law to give him stronger weapons against high prices and inflation.

The White House said Mr. Truman hopes to send the message to the Capitol before the week is over. It seems certain to get a controversial reception as the battle over economic controls is renewed.

On the beef situation, an OPS official said "the packers have been screaming bloody murder that their margins are being wiped out. They are all losing money."

He commented after an all-day closed meeting between OPS officials and the beef industry advisory committee. Changes in the entire beef pricing program were discussed as well as ideas for obtaining better ceiling enforcement and curbing of black markets.

Officials said beef prices probably will be raised a half dollar to a dollar a hundredweight at wholesale on the average and that this will average out at a cent or two cents a pound on many retail cuts. But some cuts are now overpriced, they added, and these will be adjusted in the new ceilings, so that not all beef prices will be raised.

Details may not become clear until the new order is prepared.

Wage Panel Disagrees

Washington, (AP)—A special panel named to decide whether the government should retain control over the wages of some 10,000,000 workers in industries exempt from price controls split in many directions yesterday. A majority did recommend that Attorney General McGrath be asked to rule on whether Congress meant to exempt those workers from wage restrictions.

The panel's inability to reach an agreement means the Wage Stabilization board, which gave it the assignment, will have to reach its own decision. That decision in turn will be subject to the approval or disapproval of Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston.

The six-man said the defense production act, which exempts a dozen or more major industries from price controls, was unclear on whether wages in those industries also should be stabilized.

The industries include newspapers, radio, television, motion pictures, insurance, transportation, communication and public utilities.

Family Of Three Polio Patients

Fort Worth, (AP)—A father, mother and four-months-old son meet twice daily in a hospital polio ward and the parents talk of home.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Huelon Collier and their son are polio patients. Collier is in an iron lung and his wife and baby in nearby rooms.

The wife was stricken with polio five weeks ago. The following day the baby was taken paralyzed to the hospital. Collier was brought in two days later.

"But considering everything, we're getting along fine," Mrs. Collier said cheerfully. "And I hope we'll all be going home together soon."

PEACE AND ACCORD BETWEEN Chief Burgess Hal H. Harris and Officer Charles Allen was sealed with handshake late yesterday afternoon in the office of Harris at Stroudsburg Municipal building.

Harris, Allen Shake Hands But Latter Remains Suspended Until September 5 Council Meeting

In a meeting devoid of official statements, Chief Burgess Hal H. Harris and Police Officer Charles Allen, whom the burgess suspended Monday afternoon, shook hands in Harris' office in the Stroudsburg Municipal building late yesterday afternoon.

Allen remains suspended from the force until next regular session of council on September 5, when council, under the law as interpreted by Attorney George T. Robinson, borough solicitor, has the responsibility of taking action.

Big Warship Freed After Going Aground

New York, (AP)—The 45,000-ton battleship Wisconsin went aground in the Hudson river yesterday, giving the Navy an anxious couple of hours before she was freed.

Thirteen little tugboats huffed and puffed to pull the seagoing giant of a New Jersey mudbank. Huge throngs of landlubbers gawked from the shore.

It looked for a time like another USS Missouri fiasco. The "Mighty Mo," sister-ship of the Wisconsin, was aground for two weeks in Chesapeake bay in 1950, much to the Navy's embarrassment.

Rear Adm. Walter S. Delaney, commander of the Third Naval district, said of the Wisconsin's grounding:

"The strong winds of last night and a strong tide probably contributed greatly to this incident."

The Wisconsin—one of the nation's largest battlewagons—apparently escaped damage as her stern swung onto the river mud opposite Manhattan island.

Hurricane Roars Through Tampico

Tampico, Mexico, (AP)—The hurricane that killed more than 150 persons in Jamaica roared into Tampico yesterday morning. Here it killed at least one person, injured 27 more and blew wreckage all over the flooded city.

How badly it damaged this rich oil port was hard to estimate.

Senators May Change Minds On Formula For Hiking Tax

Washington, (AP)—Tax-writing senators discovered yesterday that they had voted bigger income taxes for some people than the House had passed. They showed quick signs of changing their decision.

The Senate Finance committee, reworking the $7,200,000,000 tax increase measure sent over from the House, tentatively adopted a new formula on personal income taxes Tuesday. Taking a wholly different approach, it relieves the highest incomes of much of the increase the House voted.

Committeemen told reporters Tuesday night that it extends some relief all the way down the line. But when the committee staff produced "burden" tables yesterday showing how the formula would apply to individuals and families at various income levels it turned out that married couples with net incomes of $5,000 to $15,000 a year would actually pay somewhat more than the House proposed.

Nearly everybody else would

Groups Vote Billion Slash In Foreign Aid

Washington, (AP)—Two Senate committees are reported to have voted behind closed doors yesterday for a cut of almost $1,000,000,000 in President Truman's foreign aid program.

A senator who left the executive session early said economic funds were slashed about $600,000,000 and military funds about $315,000,000. The senator declined to be quoted by name.

He reported the Joint Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees first rejected a proposal by Senator Connally (D-Tex.) to slash $1,000,000,000 out of the economic aid section of the $8,500,000,000 measure. Connally's motion lost by four or five votes, he said.

Then, the committees approved by a narrow margin of 13 to 12 an amendment by Senator Smith (R-N.J.) to reduce the economic funds requested by 30 per cent and military funds by 5 per cent. Exact figures were expected to be announced later.

State Questions Legality Of Bill To Outlaw Reds

Harrisburg, (AP)—The State Justice committee yesterday came out against a bill to outlaw the Communist party in Pennsylvania "because of grave doubts as to its constitutionality."

Robert L. Kunzig, deputy attorney general, said the department also feels the bill "would be impossible to administer and would pack the State's jails."

"We have grave doubts as to the constitutionality of the bill," Kunzig said. "It would be extremely difficult to enforce."

Texas Displeased; He Drilled For Water, Struck Oil

Corsicana, Tex. (AP)—John Bryant got mad because he struck oil in his back yard Monday. He wanted water.

He was trying to dig a water well when oil showed at 35 feet. Three to four barrels daily output was believed possible.

"I can't handle this oil," said the retired laborer who lives in a three-room house here. "It's a dangerous thing." Fearing a gas pocket and knowing nothing about oil, he filled up the hole.

Iran Talks Collapse In Disagreement

Tehran, Iran, (AP)—British-Iranian oil talks, fostered by American Envoy Averell Harriman and carefully nursed through 18 days of ups and downs, collapsed in a final disagreement last night.

Iron-willed Premier Mohammed Mossadegh announced after a 90-minute meeting with British Cabinet Minister Richard Stokes that "we reached no agreement with respect to British management" of the nationalized oil industry.

Stokes, fully expecting the breakdown, already has announced he is flying to London early today, leaving this neighbor of Russia to its own chaotic oil affairs.

The British Cabinet took "the necessary decisions" yesterday in anticipation of the break, official London sources said.

The decisions, still secret, presumably answered the big question: Will British forces occupy Abadan, the Iranian oil refining center? The government announced last month its forces would occupy Abadan under certain circumstances—which were not defined.

British sources said Mossadegh did not give an inch in the long negotiations, and stoutly held to the letter of the nine-point law cancelling Britain's 60-year oil concession and nationalization the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. more than half owned by the British government.

The Iranians ignored a noon deadline set by Stokes for an answer to his latest proposal for British management, and when he extended it three hours, ignored that.

The deadlines passed while Parliament was voting confidence in Mossadegh's policy of refusing to compromise and the Cabinet was drafting its final answer.

Stokes on Tuesday withdrew his original eight-point offer to turn over all AIOC assets to Iran, set up a British marketing organization on a 50-50 profit basis and put a non-profit British managing organization in charge of operations under an Iranian board. This proposal was largely drafted by Walter J. Levy, Harriman's oil adviser.

The Iranians admitted, Stokes said, that they must have British experts to keep oil flowing, but objected to an organization which they feared would turn out to be another AIOC in disguise.

Willoughby Accuses Reds

Washington, (AP)—Maj. Gen. Charles A. Willoughby told Congress yesterday that American Communists helped bring about the Red conquest of China and now are seeking the overthrow of the United States.

Willoughby said the U. S. Reds acted under orders from Moscow. The tall, grey-haired general, former Army intelligence chief under Gen. Douglas MacArthur in the Far East, said that most of "the old wheelhorses of the American Communist party" were instrumental in plotting the Red upheaval in China.

Testifying before the House Un-American Activities committee, Willoughby named Eugene Dennis, imprisoned head of the American Communist party, as leader of a ring that paved the way for Red control of China.

In the same group, he named Earl Browder, Sam Darcy, Harry Berger and Gerhardt Eisler.

Underscoring Willoughby's testimony, the Senate Appropriations committee disclosed a warning from FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover that "a hard core of 43,217" Communist party members in the United States may be expected to strike with "sabotage and revolt against this country if and when the time comes."

Lower Nelson Bail

Philadelphia, (AP)—A Federal judge yesterday slashed $80,000 from the bail the government had sought for Steve Nelson, western Pennsylvania Communist leader charged with conspiring to overthrow the government.

U. N. Sees Red Frameup, Denies Alleged Violation

Munsan, Korea, Thursday (AP)—The Reds today broke off the Kaesong truce talks. They angrily charged that an Allied plane last night dropped explosive bombs and gasoline near the Communist delegates' sleeping quarters and then strafed the area. The quarters are close to the Kaesong conference site.

Allied headquarters in Tokyo in announcing the break said heatedly "the whole incident is a frameup staged from first to last."

South Koreans Seize Key Mountain Stronghold Near Yanggu North Of Parallel

U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, Thursday, (AP)—South Korean troops capped a five-day drive in eastern Korea yesterday by seizing an important Communist mountain stronghold.

From this dominating ridge, north of Yanggu, United Nations troops could "look down the throats" of Red forces for miles, reported AP Correspondent George McArthur.

Yanggu, at the eastern end of the Hwasan reservoir, is eight miles north of the 38th parallel. Further east, other South Koreans had close support from Allied warships and planes in fighting west and north of Kamsan, 27 miles north of 38.

Fifth Air Force fighters and bombers pounded Communist supply routes and troop positions in western and central Korea. Again there were heavy Communist convoy movements toward the front.

B-29 Superforts of the Far East Bomber command blasted Red railroad yards at Suncheon by radio because of heavy clouds. Moderately strong anti-aircraft fire was hurled at the big bombers but none was struck.

The Communist air force failed to make an appearance yesterday.

(In Washington an Air Force official disclosed that a Russian-built MIG-15 jet fighter had been recovered by the Allies after it was shot down in shallow water off the west Korean front. The MIG is now in the possession of the Air Force at Wright-Patterson Air base in Ohio.)

McCarthy Accuses Truman Of Issuing Gag Order

Washington, (AP)—Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) accused President Truman last night of issuing a gag order making it an offense for any Federal employee to "give Congress the truth about Communists who are in our government."

McCarthy also charged that the President's ambassador-at-large, Philip C. Jessup, was formerly editorial director of a Communist-front publication which he said received "thousands of dollars of Communist money."

The Wisconsin senator said the "incredibly fantastic order" barring Federal employees from testifying on loyalty matters to Congress went into effect on Aug. 21, 1948—"just 17 days after the Hiss case broke."

This was a reference to Alger Hiss, former State department official, who was convicted of perjury for denying he ever slipped government secrets to a Communist spy ring.

McCarthy said that when the gag order went out, "President Truman had just made his famous statement that the Hiss case was a 'red herring' and that those who uncovered Hiss were seeking publicity and 'endangering unity.'"

"The President then says, 'But why doesn't McCarthy produce the evidence which I, the President, have ordered withheld?'" McCarthy continued.

"Can any of you think of one reason on God's green earth why Mr. Truman has issued this order? Is not this order an admission that they know about and are trying to protect the Communists in government?"

McCarthy said he brought up the matter of the order to show "why it is so difficult to produce evidence against Communists and fellow travelers."

Remington's Conviction Reversed

New York, (AP)—A new trial was ordered yesterday for William W. Remington, former government economist convicted of perjury in denying he ever was a member of the Communist party.

The U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals reversed his conviction in a unanimous decision that held the trial court erred in its charge to the jury.

The higher court upheld a defense contention that the trial court's definition of membership in the Communist party was "too vague and indefinite."

William C. Chandler, defense counsel, said Remington told him "I am very pleased with the result." Chandler said he reached Remington at Whitingham, Vt., where he is staying in a friend's cabin with his mother and his two children.

U. S. Attorney Irving H. Saypol, who prosecuted Remington, said the reversal was being studied and a decision would be made quickly whether to seek a review by the U. S. Supreme court.

Belief persisted in the Allied truce camp that the negotiations would not be broken off as a result of the rash of Red charges.

"The United Nations command," said Joy, "has no control over or responsibility for partisan or indigenous forces in areas which are not under the effective control of the United Nations forces."

"It has no control or responsibility for citizens within those areas of the Republic of Korea occupied by your forces who on their own initiative take up arms against an invader."

Six enclosures were attached to document Joy's contention that: One — The killing of a Chinese Red platoon leader and the wounding of another member of his patrol at Songgong August 19, "was carried out by a group of partisan irregulars" and that no Allied troops were involved in the incident.

Two — A joint Red-U. N. investigation showed no evidence to substantiate a Communist claim that Allied troops fired on Red soldiers within the neutral zone.

Three — That a Red report of a similar shooting incident near Pannunjom on August 7 proved "groundless and was fabricated for reasons unknown to the U. N. command delegation."

Four — That Red vehicles will continue to be subject to air attack even though marked with white flags unless the U. N. is informed in advance of their time and route of movement.

Dear Sir:

Please accept my contribution of $1 to the Charles Allen Defense Fund in Charlie's hour of need.

I didn't use the parking meter Tuesday, but advanced cautiously from the Borough Line because of the opening of hostilities on Ann St. I missed the usual smile of Stroudsburg's good will ambassador on the crowded thoroughfare and somehow seemed depressed. Stroudsburg is not the same to me anymore.

Sometimes we take for granted many things with little appreciation until they are gone. As natives we are more apt to watch the bumps in the road rather than the beautiful scenery which our visitors are so glad to view.

It is painful to see what has happened to one of our superior peace officers in the line of duty. With Charlie's pleasant personality and welcoming smile it was a must for us rural folks to come to the County seat.

It was an exciting adventure to get our tardy jalopy out of hock for over-staying leave according to Borough meterology with Charlie as chief magistrate.

As one of Officer Allen's many friends it behooves me to come to his aid. Perhaps, too, poor Charlie's other friends will help him out.

It is but a short while ago that some folks begged heavy traffic to go through Stroudsburg via a then proposed 7th Street bridge. Now this same traffic is considered a blight. How times change!

One of the county's rural folk wishes Charlie the best of luck. KARL PRICE, Barrett Township, Pa.

Police Hunt Dennis Keiper

Long Pond—Police of several states are on the lookout for Dennis Albert Keiper, Lehigh county prisoner who escaped from the Allentown hospital Monday.

State and local police have been making a thorough search of the Pocono Mountain area, since a car, believed stolen by Keiper in Allentown, was recovered at Long Pond Monday night. Keiper's family resides about six miles from Long Pond.

According to reports, a woman visitor brought Keiper clothing right before he walked out of a side door at the hospital. He had been recovering from a spinal operation.

This was the third time Keiper had escaped from a jail. In 1944, he broke out of the Monroe county jail while awaiting trial for the theft of a car. He escaped again in 1949, while serving time for a parole violation at the Eastern Penitentiary. Graterford, Keiper has a record of 18 arrests, 13 convictions and three parole violations.

109th Holds Off Aggressor During Division Withdrawal

Fort Bragg, N. C., (AP)—The 28th Infantry Division last night continued to withdraw in the face of strong "aggressor" opposition and took up new positions along the original starting line for the Exercise Southern Pine Maneuver.

The division's 109th Infantry Regiment was given the mission of holding off the "aggressor" until the new positions could be firmly established along Little Rock Fish creek.

The creek is the line used by the 82nd Airborne Division last week when the maneuver first began.

The battle yesterday was limited to sharp patrols skirmishes for the most part since the "enemy's" supply lines had been extended too far for them to continue their intensive attack of Tuesday.

New attacks were expected. If the new line holds, the 28th will probably launch a new attack from there in a few days.

The U. S. forces in the Maneuver gained limited air superiority yesterday and this factor should help the 28th greatly in any new attack.

Its' a Living

Well, there's no law that says an honest old sport must remain an honest old sport. So there's no reason why what happened to wrestling should not happen to baseball. And it is!

Wrestling was once a skilled athlete's scientific game. It followed stern, sportsmanlike rules and was avidly pursued by its devotees. But aside from those in the know, nobody went to see it.

Today, wrestling is a part of the entertainment industry. It provides cheap talent for television broadcast, and in turn, television stimulates one-or-two-time audiences for wrestling. Thanks to TV's popularization of the "sport" thousands knock at the doors of stadia, such as our local parks, to see the performance. And wrestling has done a good job of playing to the vaudeville audiences. What were once athletes are now actors—hammy, it is true, but entertaining.

Baseball is going the same way in pursuit of boxoffice. Obviously, baseball cannot live without income, just as the average householder cannot live when nothing is coming in. And just as the average householder must get out and scratch when things are difficult, so must baseball. The St. Louis Browns are the newest case in point. They were bought recently by Bill Veeck, the showy impresario who outdid Larry McPhail and who put the transfusion into the Cleveland Indians. Bill is now transfusing for the Browns.

He has just scored his top success to date. Hitherto, all the flimflam and honkytonk stuff was put on before or between games, or at least between innings. But now even the ball game has got into the act. Veeck signed a midget about three-and-a-half feet tall. He is a player on the roster. He batted in a game Sunday and walked. There was no way to pitch to him.

By using nine such pinch hitters, a team could stay at bat all day and score runs indefinitely. There would be no way a normal sized pitcher could get the ball over the plate for a midget without ruining his control for life. So now the game itself can be made a carnival and the actors can replace the ball players in the lineup. What happened to wrestling is happening to baseball.

But, as we said, there is no law that says a fine old sport must remain a fine old sport in the face of declining receipts. And it is always easier to find some hippodroming answer than to fold up quietly.

Icardi Talks Back

When the Defense Department made public the fantastic story of the OSS officers (accused of killing and robbing their commander behind the enemy lines during the war) great point was made of the fact that since the men were no longer in the armed services they could not be tried by a military court.

But one of them, Aldo Icardi, formerly a lieutenant in our Army, offered to rejoin the Army so that he can be tried by a court martial.

Now the Army says it cannot be done. Even if he re-joined there is some red tape that forbids it. Just why the Army should be so unwilling to waive red tape when Icardi is willing to risk his neck is not clear. It is clear that he will chance his neck to be vindicated. He says he is innocent. But the Army will have no part of him.

Icardi charged that the entire story was a trumped up by-product of Italian underground politics (Red vs. Nationalist) and that it was spread in this country as sensational promotion for a magazine.

It looks as though it is up to the Defense Department to put up or shut up on Icardi. He is willing to stand an American trial—even a military trial—but the Defense Department won't offer a way to try him. The best Washington can offer is to ship him to Italy for a political trial there.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerr

Monte Carlo was the scene of a strange occurrence one night many years ago. An elderly gentleman took a seat in the casino and ventured fifty francs on Number 17. The number came up. The old man pointed at Number 17 again and made no move to take in any of his winnings.

Again the little silver ball came to rest at Number 17! The croupier looked questioning at the old man, who sat with his head down on one arm and his finger pointed at Number 17. The old man's pile of chips was enormous. The crowd stood still with admiration for his nerve. The croupier had a hurried consultation with the directors, and announced that the bank was broken and the roulette game at an end.

But the winner of the fortune never stirred. He was dead. Furthermore, a doctor testified in court he had been dead ever since the second spin. A dead man broke the bank of Monte Carlo.

Hollywood

Hollywood—Wal, pardners, the folks over Arizona way kin expect 'thave a mighty purty neighbor in their midst, come about five years from now. Virginia Mayo as shapely a filly as I ever see, plans to retire from pitchers then settle down on a ranch, an' have kids.

This I learnt whilst palavirgin' on "Marriage Broker" set with her, rancher-actor-husband, Michael O'Shea. Mike is boss wrangler of their 6,000-acre spread 50 miles northeast of Tucson. Spends most of his time there, tendin' 300 Hereford and Brahmo cattle, breakin' horses, an' such. But at the moment he was playin' a newspaper ad man in this here pitcher with Thelma Ritter and Jeanne Crain.

Slippin' gracefully into my cowpoke character, I seen lots o' westerns, bowlin' my legs slightly, an' shifflin' my cud o' chicle. I sat Mike how come this ranchin' sideline anyways.

"I've been plannin' this for years," he sez, speakin' real cultured-like. "I wanted a business other than pictures to fill my time when I was not working. A musician can practice, a writer can write. What can an actor do? Stand in front of a mirror and make faces?"

"I'd been rodeoing for seven years. I spent three or four months at a time at different Arizona, Texas, and Oklahoma ranches at roundup time, learnin' the business."

"Virginia wanted us to have a ranch—in this part of the country. It's the finest climate in the United States."

"Virginia flies down between pictures or whenever she has a few days off. She's there about one-third of the time. When the ranch is all clear and paying for itself—roughly in about five years—she'll quit pictures, and we'll settle down, enjoy life, and have a family."

These Days — By George E. Sokolsky

Regional Treaties
The theory of the United Nations, as of the League of Nations, is that nations can and should, in one manner or another, develop a parliament of man, where decisions could be reached by consent.

The League of Nations failed because it was a chamber for negotiation rather than a parliament, a place for an exchange of ideas, purposes and plans, but it could not enforce a decision. Its failure was not due to the absence of the United States from the league, because while not a member, the United States participated in many and supported most of the more important activities of the league.

The failure was due to a lack of the power to enforce a decision. Meanwhile, nations had to continue to do business and organized regional alliances, inside and outside the league. The French, for instance, strongly supported such groupings of nations as surrounded Russia: Poland, Rumania, Czechoslovakia. The German-Italian axis is perhaps more familiar. The Hitler-Stalin alliance, which destroyed the league and brought on World War II, was kept secret. The United Nations is a stronger body than the league ever was. It has been able to enforce decisions of great importance. Nevertheless, regional agreements outside the United Nations are inevitable in view of the sharp and deep cleavage between Soviet powers and anti-Soviet powers.

The principal regional agreement is the Cominform, which is, of itself, a union of nations encompassing, as of this moment, 800,000,000 human beings and extending from the Elbe to the Pacific in both Europe and Asia. This huge land mass is bound together not only by an ideological, propaganda and military apparatus of unification but also by a series of secret agreement, economic agreements and defensive and offensive alliances, about which some details are known but not too much.

The North Atlantic Alliance is the Western reply to the Cominform. This consists of the United States, Canada, Great Britain, the countries of Western Europe. It will, eventually, have to include Spain, Turkey and Greece to be truly effective.

Another regional grouping is the Arab League, a union of Moslem countries which could develop into an enormous power. It has never quite measured up to its own expectations. The weakness of the Arab League arises first from its failure to free itself from adventurist individuals; secondly, the conflict among the Arabs arising from the ambitions of the Hashimites on the one hand and Egypt on the other. Also, a middle eastern group of nations must include Israel. Pakistan, at present the most significant of Moslem countries, may be the crucial factor in the Moslem world.

Now a new grouping of nations is being developed in the Pacific. The Pacific Union has been essential since Soviet Russia marched into China, and has been advocated by General Douglas MacArthur, Chiang Kai-shek and President Quirino of the Philippines. In the past, it has been opposed by the State department.

It is now becoming a fact in the tripartite security treaty among the United States, Australia and New Zealand. To it is being added the Philippines. It is to be hoped that Japan, Formosa and Indonesia will be included as well as such other countries as Malaya, Burma, Siam (Thailand) and French Indo-China. It will take time to round out this group.

The second article of the draft of this treaty makes of this an offensive-defensive alliance. It reads:

"In order more effectively to achieve the objective of this treaty the parties separately and jointly by means of continuous and effective self-help and mutual aid will maintain and develop their individual and collective capacity to resist armed attack."

After article 2, the treaty provides for the implementation of joint defense. The charter of the United Nations is protected. In the first article, but that in no manner lessens the force of the purpose, which is to arrest the movement of Russia in Asia. Under the proposed treaty, the Pacific Union goes into effect as soon as any country in the group is attacked by anybody.

The State department policy of beginning with Australia and New Zealand and then adding countries to that nucleus is sound because other Pacific nations have problems and associations which involve special consideration. By the tripartite method, it was possible to start with a clear-cut document. The Philippines is already in an alliance with the United States, and Formosa is dependent on this country. Therefore, this union already includes five nations and can be expanded from this starting point.

Some Scriptural Observations

The Darryl Zanuck smash, "David and Bathsheba," got us researching about the Bible, still world's all-time best-seller, the greatest combination of written wisdom, sadness and soundness known to man.

By Fulton Lewis, Jr.
London—In the light of the State department's multi-million dollar voice of America and its Foreign Information and Education programs, it seems reasonable to ask why, even here in Great Britain, the guy in the street thinks what he does about the United States.

London's Hyde Park is a world renowned for its 24-hour-a-day soapbox forum, where anyone may speak on any subject, with audiences for each speaker on a competitive catch-as-catch-can basis. It's a rough and tumble business, with no queen-bee rules to enforce the niceties of debate. For me, I want no part of it.

My gangling, six-foot, 15-year-old son Fulton Lewis III—Alias Buddy—concluded, however, that it was a good source of British grass-roots vox-pop, and went on a lone reconnaissance expedition. His original purpose, he says, was just to listen.

He found five different speakers, each with a group of 30 to 40 listeners, the topics ranging from Communism to home gardening. One, particularly, caught his attention. A Protestant speaker, who was being worked over by a couple of hecklers, was proclaiming in scintillating tones that Protestants would never go Communist. That the trouble with the world is that the United States is the symbol of the un-religious forces in the world, and is being sucked in by Communism and all other evil ideologies.

Master Lewis demanded that the speaker back up his statement with chapter and verse, which the speaker failed to do. A Communist and an anti-Communist stopped arguing between themselves to call on Buddy for his views on Socialism in Great Britain.

He replied that it obviously is responsible for the British people, being in the mess they're in. The pro-Communist retorted that Socialism is fine, and so is the way the British government is being run. What was wrong with it?

When my progeny cited the Austerity program, with its rationing and purchasing taxes, another bystander opined that is a fair and equitable means of distributing available supplies evenly among all the people. Buddy's answer was that in the United States, we produce enough so that there's no need or reason for rationing.

By this time, the original speaker had folded his portable platform and disappeared, and master Lewis found he had inherited the audience, plus some deserters from the other four crowds. He had two supporters in the lot, one a blond man whom he faintly suspects was himself an American, the other a drunk who meant to be helpful but who functioned chiefly as comedy relief.

One spectator proclaimed loudly that the British worker is better off than the one in the United States. To that, Buddy replied was to cite facts on what the American worker has under a non-Socialistic economy, and what his standard of living is. He didn't have to deluge the British standard of living. The spectators already knew that.

Another spectator charged that the United States is meddling in British domestic affairs and trying to control British policies. Master Lewis cited the log record of Secretary of State Dean Acheson and his obedience to every whim of Downing street, even in opposition to the overwhelming mass of American public opinion. He wanted to know why England is so friendly to Communist Russia, when the British are fighting Russia, along with us in Korea. The reply was that Britain is not fighting Russians in Korea; they are fighting North Koreans.

But cited the Russian arms, ammunition, and jet fighter planes in Korea, plus the known Russian help in training the North Korean and Communist Chinese Armies. Somebody in the crowd came back with a sneering reference about believing everything one reads in the newspapers.

Young Mr. Lewis then asked what England thinks of the United States, and the response was not complimentary. They were tired of being boosed by us; why don't we mind our business? Why do Americans have to run the European Army? Why did we drag England into the Korean war?

David's fabled army mustered only 250,000 warriors, every 24,000 of whom had a separate commander. No red tape, all were in the employ of the royal treasury and each soldier got a piece of the spoils of war.

David was a clear-eyed, handsome redhead who disregarded Moses' wishes and maintained a harem. He had a houseful before he took Bathsheba. She bore him five sons, of whom Solomon was the youngest.

David loved to dance. In his day that was considered effeminate by many. Because he packed a mighty fist, nobody challenged him. But his first wife, Michal, asked him to cut it out or at least, lower the blinds.

Darryl Zanuck again proves himself a first rate showman. Another great showman—P. T. Barnum—was an avid Bible reader. He came of deeply religious folks. His mother took his first name from one of the Psalm Books—Psalms (Pinehas).

In a trade paper, a Hollywood script-writer took an ad to boast his new novel has been translated into four languages. A rather thin brag...As of December, 1950, the Bible had been translated into and published in 1,034 of the 2,796 known languages and dialects of the world, listed by the French Academy.

Reds have always yelped that pure science exposes the Bible. This is a "line" and false. Witness these quotes from a handful of the most eminent scientists who ever lived:

Sir Isaac Newton: "We account the Scriptures of God to be the most sublime philosophy. I find more sure marks of authenticity in the Bible than in any profane history whatever."

Robert Millikan, Nobel Prize winner: "I consider an intimate knowledge of the Bible an indispensable qualification of a well-educated man. Contact with the finest influences which have ever come into human life can be obtained only in this way."

Thomas Henry Huxley: "The Bible has been the Magna Charta of the poor and oppressed. Down to modern times, no state has had a constitution in which the interests of the people are so largely taken into account."

First public relations man in Biblical times was Aaron who prepared many addresses and statements for Moses—who was not eloquent, had a poor grasp of words, and was slow-spoken. Aaron translated his wisdom into print. For proof: Exodus IV: 14-16; 10.

The oldest complete Bible in the world lies in the Vatican library in Rome. It is written in Greek. The Bible contains 773-693 words of wisdom, the smallest version of which was printed in Glasgow in 1901—it measures one and one-quarter inches without the cover and is seven-sixteenths of an inch thick.

On the lighter side, some Rotarians have hunted and found passages they think are applicable to modern sports.

"When Joseph served in Pharaoh's courts," for tennis.

"Ananias was caught in a bad lie," for golf.

Ezekiel: "I will cause men to walk"...Oh, those bases on balls!

Jeremiah: "And I will fan them"...pre-Feller.

Psalm 26:1: "For I have walked...therefore I shall not slide"—Could be Stanley?

Voltaire and Tom Paine both predicted the Bible would not survive them 100 years...The Good Book has grown every year since, in ratio with the increase of mankind's population. It is eternal.

Is this disgusting spectacle any less unsavory than the Kefauver investigation itself?

Much good was done by the investigation, no doubt. But the way it was conducted did not contribute much to its effectiveness.

How can our children benefit from an investigation which is made into a television show?

Senator Tobey's histrionics, Senator Kefauver's commercialization of his role in the investigation, Rudolph Halley's use of it as a stepping stone into politics, all were "very good theater," but certainly not very good "justice."

But it's all our own fault. We want bread and circuses. We must make a show out of everything.

At any murder trial people—and particularly the women—fight one another for choice seats. And, if the murderer is sentenced to be put to death, the authorities could sell tickets to the execution at fancy prices.

I think it is time America grew up. Crime isn't child's play. Make television stay out of criminals and soon you will make criminals out of children who watch them perform in front of the screen.

Glorify a Virginia Hill—with her mint coats, her 100 pairs of shoes, her $450 dresses—and soon your daughter will ask herself whether it pays to be good.

Or has "The Wages of Sin is Death" been changed to "The Wages of Sin is Mink?"

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

It's All Done By Mirrors

Is a yachting cap the proper wear for a crime probe witness this season? What yacht flags are used to spell out "Do not disturb"? Does a much-wanted witness pass to port or starboard in eluding a U. S. Senate subpoena? Must Uncle Sam give the right of way to an alleged racketeer if arriving at the yacht club Saturday night dance by power dinghy? These are all plausible questions raised by events in the fade-out of the Senate Crime committee's war on the underworld these final August days. Fancy the picture, mates! A badly needed witness out on a yacht and a Senate committee seemingly in a canoe strumming "Where is My Wandering Boy Tonight?" on a ukulele (with all radio broadcasting barred!).

With Rudolph Halley out of the east and Estes Kefauver playing a secondary role occasionally, the Senate Crime committee fades into in a manner to depress the public and cheer the mobsters. At no time since the public was jolted into a realization of gangster operations by the dramatic exposures over video last March has the Senate quitted more than a wrist motion. Its hearings ended on two dismal notes, a polite knowing to lawyers protesting not only video but radio, and a complete inability to interrupt a summer yachting trip.

Farewell, Crime committee! With the Congress reluctantly granting you only a summer extension (when the public was in swimming and so many witnesses yachting), what should have been the most powerful shows in history rings down the curtain September first. Its summer run was strictly straw-hat-circuit stuff, lacking wallop, color and fire. Halley went into politics. Kefauver took to authorship and lecture routines and the summer stage director, Senator O'Connor, was so polite and considerate he seemed to be producing an old George Cohan song-and-dance number for sensitive witnesses and their ever-loving attorneys.

As the score stands at the moment, the mobsters of America are no worse than in a photo finish with the forces of law and order and are all set to romp to the front. The claim that the job of running the mobs off the lot can be left to cities and states is strictly "for the birds." The hoodlums want no better break. One of the Crime committee members himself declares the surface has barely been scratched and that "the largest crime syndicate remain free from prosecution." He and Chairman O'Connor express hope that the Senate Interstate and Foreign Commerce committee take over and press the anti-crime war. (Wanna bet?)

It was a great fight while it lasted. But a government which appropriates billions for almost anything couldn't see fit to appropriate the chicken feed needed to keep the Senate Crime committee going hell for leather in an effective rat chase. (And incidentally, huh, whatever became of the committee's recommendations for badly needed legislation in the war on dope rings, smugglers, mobsters, desperados and their allies who make a mockery of civic decency, debauch the kids of America and cost all citizens dearly in the struggle for existence? You know, Bar Association! have you lifted a finger to curb the racket by which some lawyers act as partners of top mobsters, help draw up their plans, act as constant consultants and spring to their aid in every instance? Huh?)

Shudda Haddim missed "Hall of Fame" in that big race the other day. "Though he was a bust," he says... The average American income in 1950 was $1,436. The Commerce department, Ya mean all those automobiles came from Santa Claus!!! The more we read of the delay in exposing that murder of Major Holohan in Italy the more we wonder if the Pentagon was saving the story for Inner Sanctum or Lights Out... Margaret Truman has been presented with a $28,000 limousine, with phone, gold-plated fittings, etc., by the Ford Motor Company. She can now pass any Republican on the road.

Pike-Wayne Fair Opens This Morning

Newfoundland.—The 35th annual Greene-Dreher fair gets under way here this morning with every indication for a post-war high in entries and a heavy influx of visitors from Wayne, Pike and Monroe counties and other neighboring areas of northeastern Pennsylvania.

Opening today, the agricultural exhibition will continue through Friday and Saturday on the local fairgrounds and adjacent buildings of the Greene-Dreher school. A full program of events is scheduled for both daylight hours and after dark.

Fair officials, casting a eye skyward and studying weather maps, expressed optimism for all weathers, for the three-day event after the work of setting up the grounds had been carried on under adverse conditions.

W. W. Wilder, superintendent of exhibits, and his crew of assistants will be on hand at 9 a. m. today to accept last minute entries and assign display space for competitors in the various departments which include livestock, poultry, farm crops, canned goods, culinary arts, flowers, needlework and classifications for children under 12 and vocational agricultural and home economic students.

Entrance clerks will be on duty until 7 p. m. in the high school auditorium, Wilder said. His committee has made provisions for a record number of entries, he added.

Exhibitors are limited to residents of Greene and Palmyra townships in Pike county and Dreher, Lehigh and Sterling townships in Wayne county.

Ground superintendent Richard McLain has all in readiness for the expected thousands who annually attend this fair, the one of the oldest community fairs in Pennsylvania. A complete set of rides have been erected and refreshment stands and other entertainment devices have been located along the midway to create a carnival atmosphere for the fair-goer's diversion.

Planned entertainment includes nightly band concerts by the Greene-Dreher School band from 7 to 9 and another at 2:30 p. m. Saturday. A local oldtime German band will also entertain on the grounds on Friday and Saturday.

Judging of the farm crops and culinary arts division will take place Friday morning while the livestock will be appraised by the judges at 1:15 Friday afternoon. Exhibits will then be on view until 4 p. m. Saturday when all farm crops will be auctioned in the high school auditorium.

Saturday's program includes the annual meeting of the Greene-Dreher Old Folks association, an organization of regional octogenarians and golden wedding couples. This group, of which over 40 are expected to attend, will be the guests of the fair association at dinner in the Moravian church at 12:30 p. m.

The auxiliary unit of Phillips-Zacharias-Phillips Post No. 859, American Legion, will serve dinner in the school cafeteria at 12 noon on Saturday and supper from 5 p. m. to 7 p. m.

Consider Neighbors

When planning a color scheme for the exterior of your house consider the coloring of adjacent neighbors' homes. Clashing colors in the immediate surroundings can detract greatly from the attractive effect you wish to achieve.

Floyd Altomose, president of the fair association, said yesterday, "We expect to have finest appointments and all other facilities for one of our greatest fairs, and that will be achieved by the teamwork and combined efforts of everyone associated with the exhibit."

Many Visit Flower Show Of Pocono Garden Club

Tannersville—The flower show sponsored by the Pocono Garden Club, Mrs. B. H. Granacher, president, opened at the fire house yesterday afternoon with a splendid display of midsummer flowers which were highly commended by those who visited the show room during the afternoon and evening.

The show will continue today from 1 to 9 p. m. when another fine turnout of lovers of flowers is expected to enjoy the display.

The flowers have been arranged in groups which make possible a better opportunity of examining the various blooms which furnish a picture of natural beauty that leaves a deep impression on every one.

There is a glorious display of gladioli of all colors which readily attract attention of visitors. One of the groups which proved most interesting was that in which the flowers made a perfect copy of the picture on which they are based.

The neutral color arrangement in gray and brown is another that is enjoyed. However, the group of flowers and foliage featuring wood, in its natural style attracted the close attention of the student of flora.

The use of hobbies as the background was novel, indeed. Here, for instance, the flowers suggest the sewing basket with the usual contents displayed above the flowers. Then there is one in keeping with glass and also sewing.

The class which is known as "You Name It" is novel. Another is "Chore Time," takes one back into the yesteryear. Included is an old fashioned lantern which is filled with yellow flowers.

Nor have the children been forgotten. Theirs, too, is a display that readily attracts attention, following the flower garden motif.

The lover of miniatures finds a very fine display covering quite a number of designs.

The display of cosmos, calceolarias, zinnias and marigolds furnishes a lavish color that adds much to the beauty of the 1951 efforts of the garden club, especially to those who have had the heavy responsibility of planning and arranging the show.

The judges, Mrs. William H. Miller and Mrs. Lydia Serfass, of Palmerton, were engaged the greater part of the afternoon yesterday examining of the display on the result of which the prize winners are selected.

Mrs. J. N. Canfield Jr., is chairman of the committee in charge of the show. Her assistants are: Mrs. Paul Hein, Mrs. George Greenhalgh, Mrs. Floyd DeHaven, Mrs. Kenneth Starnes, Mrs. Charles Brader, Mrs. James Boecker. Other club members assisted them in the work.

Sunday Movie Petitions In Circulation

Bartonsville—Melvin Heimbach, owner-manager of Pocono Drive-In Theater here said yesterday he is having petitions circulated which will place the Sunday movie question on the General Election ballot in November for the qualified voters of Hamilton township.

Heimbach said that in the meantime he will no longer operate the drive-in theater Sunday nights which has been his practice since he started operating the drive-in. During that time the Sunday night operations have been subject to prosecutions under the so-called blue laws of Pennsylvania and a fine of $50.

"Because of the blue laws," Mr. Heimbach said yesterday, "I will no longer operate the theater Sunday nights."

The theater operator said he has retained an attorney to handle all the legal matters connected with petitions and filing for the Sunday movie vote with the Monroe County Board of Elections.

Colors Work Together

Each color in a room affects every other color that is there. When you place red next to a wall or an object that is painted with its complement, green, it will give greater beauty to the green. Orange, next to blue will make the blue seem brighter.

You'll see things you've never seen before!

Here—just slip behind the wheel for a moment. You'll find that literally, and wonderfully, true—in the 1951 Packard!

See that right front fender? You've never seen that before from the driver's seat. And what a wonderful feeling of driving sureness that can give you in tight traffic, in parking, in any driving situation. Dead-ahead vision's better too. With Packard's new, lower bonnet, you enjoy "close-up-vision" of the road directly ahead of your wheels!

But that's only part of the story! There are other things to see in this greatest Packard of all time. Head her out on the highway. Have you ever experienced smoother automatic driving than Packard Ultramatic Drive? Have you ever commanded more alert power than you have under your throttle-foot now? That's the new Packard Thunderbolt Engine—highest compression eight in America!

Now hit that rough stretch ahead. You're on it now, in case you didn't know. Did you ever see steadier going? Road shocks are completely absorbed. Your steering wheel hand doesn't even feel them. And your passengers hardly realize the road's been torn up! This car paves its way in comfort.

Well, that's just an idea of what's ahead for you. Why don't you drop in today for an actual demonstration?

Heating Units Keep Pace With Styles

Such trends in modern architecture as houses with picture windows from floor to ceiling, the one-story ranch type house, and the basement-less house would have presented a heating problem a few years ago but today, thanks to innovations in equipment are taken by the heating industry in its stride, the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau reports.

New types of heating units which direct the heat to the lower or occupied portion of rooms, better control, and improvements in installation methods are among the new developments which enable the heating industry today to provide comfort in houses which only a few years ago, would have been classed as "hard to heat," the bureau points out.

The problem of providing comfortable conditions in rooms with a large glass area has been solved partly by improved types of controls and partly by new developments in panel heating, baseboard heating-equipment, radiators and convectors.

Separate Thermostat Used
A large glass area presents a comfort problem. When the sun is not shining on the glass, discomfort sometimes results as the occupants of the room may be exposed to both the effect of the glass surface and to the cool air which often descends from large glass areas to the floor.

When the sun is shining on the glass, the room is likely to be overheated as compared with other rooms, unless the room is individually zoned with its own controls.

When individually zoned, a separate thermostat regulates the heat input into the room so that, when the sun is shining on the glass, the heat input is reduced or, if necessary, eliminated. On the other hand, when the room is shaded, the amount of heat going into the room is increased.

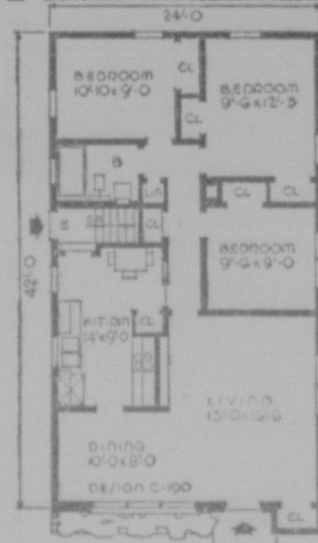

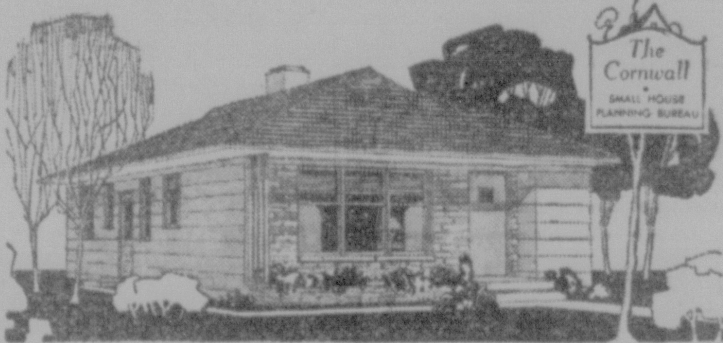

Radiant Heating Solves Problem
Progress in radiant heating now enables engineers to design panels which will offset the effects of the cold from large glass areas. Another innovation in radiant heating, the radiant baseboard, permits the source of radiant heat to be installed immediately under the window so that the entire glass area is blanketed by both radiant and convected heat.

Modern ideas such as large glass areas could not have attained their current popularity without the recent progress in the heating industry.

Similarly the sprawling, ranch-type house covering a large ground area is no longer a problem for the heating industry. With forced circulation hot water, there is no difficulty in providing the most remote heat distributing unit with its correct amount of hot water. No rooms are hard to heat. Devices for balancing the heat flow to various circuits and zoning of rooms enables the modern heating and piping contractor to provide perfect comfort in all rooms.

Basementless House Practical
Not so many years ago the heating industry discouraged the construction of houses without a basement because there was no satisfactory method of heating the floor. Today radiant heating plus good insulation under the floor have combined to make basement-less houses entirely practical.

The floors of basementless houses may be warmed either with coils in the floor or in the ceiling. Radiant baseboard panels have also been found entirely satisfactory for the heating of basementless Renie Kresge, Floyd Shupp, Michael Smith, Fred Wagner and Mrs. Ella David attended a homecoming picnic at the Odd Fellows home at Middletown on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Billman, of Northampton, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Smith on Saturday night.

Claude Murphy, of Zerahpath, N. J., was an overnight guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Murphy on Saturday.

Gordon Shupp and son, Barry, Mrs. Homer Shupp, spent the weekend in Marietta, Ohio.

Mrs. Earl Murphy and son, Neal, spent the weekend in Atlantic City.

Ford Bond is a surgical patient in Gooden Hospital at Lehigh.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Bond transacted business in Stroudsburg on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Shupp spent the weekend with the former's mother, Mrs. Cora Shupp.

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy J. Shupp spent the weekend visiting relatives in New York City.

Mrs. Elta Rinker spent the weekend at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Elan Grey, and family of Delaware Water Gap.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Kresge and daughter, Bonnie, visited Mr. and Mrs. John Weiss on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Rinker and family visited Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Mooney, of Northampton, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Haugh and sons, of Lehigh, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Shupp on Sunday.

Research work at the University of Illinois has disclosed that radiant baseboards will not only warm the floor but will also warm the walls on which they are installed, thus providing the warm surfaces so essential for comfort.

Irrespective of the type of house, and the kind of heating system, good construction and careful design are important for comfort as well as fuel economy. In all heating work, the advice and guidance and the technical skill of the heating and piping contractor are fully as important as the equipment itself.

Protect Enameled Fixtures

The Enameled Cast Iron Fixtures Association has just issued a folder which offers practical advice regarding the care of enameled fixtures. If given reasonably good treatment, the enamel finish on the fixtures is durable, the association points out, but if scratched or chipped, the finish becomes unsightly as well as unsanitary.

"Avoid the use of harsh abrasive cleaners or steel wool," is the principal warning. "Once the enamel has been scratched, it becomes increasingly hard to keep clean."

"The best way to preserve the enamel is to keep the surfaces clean with soap and water, using a coarse cloth or bristle brush. For stubborn stains, use a nongritty cleaner on a damp, coarse cloth. You can buy cleaners prepared especially for plumbing fixtures from your plumber."

Attention is called to the fact that only acid-resisting enamel is now used for surfacing kitchen sinks. Other fixtures may be had, however, with either acid-resisting or regular enamel surfaces.

Suggestions for Care

Here are some of the association's suggestions for their care: "It is better to dispose of garbage than to use a triangular sink strainer that by constant contact permits acid juices to stain or roughen the enamel."

"With daily cleaning, an acid-resisting enameled cast iron sink will resist the action of acids from fruits, vegetables, tea leaves and coffee grounds."

"You are likely to chip the enamel on your sink if you use it for chipping ice, chopping meat, slicing and shredding vegetables. Avoid hard blows by heavy pots and pans or sliding them across the enameled surface."

"If it is necessary to stand in the tub when cleaning or painting bathroom walls, place a heavy protective cover in the bottom of the fixture."

Wipe Immediately

"Spilled medicines, cosmetics, bath rinses, drain pipe solvent and photographic solutions should always be wiped up immediately. "Have dripping faucets repaired promptly to avoid stains resulting from minerals in the water."

Place For Shelves

Space at either side of a fireplace can be utilized for bookshelves extending to the ceiling.

Stripping Cuts Cost Of Heating

With winter just around the corner the time is appropriate for a checkup of windows and doors for possible cracks, and, if necessary, the application of weather stripping to cut down heat lost through these openings.

A well-constructed house should have every crack around the door and window frames sealed against leakage. In masonry homes this precaution should also be supplemented by caulking at the outside edges of all frames. Caulking looks like putty and is a special compound which swells when dry to fit tightly against the edges of each crack.

The inner edges of the windows and doors should be weather-stripped. To do this, strips of metal should be applied around the openings so that, when the doors and windows are shut, the edges interlock with themselves. Felt is frequently used but it is not as effective as metal. It is estimated that weather stripping cuts fuel costs from 10 to 20 per cent.

Plumbers Urge Individual Valves

When installing new plumbing or extending an old system, plumbers advise home owners to make sure that a valve is included to control the water supply to each piece of equipment so that hot water tank, sink, laundry tub, bathroom fixtures, washer, furnace boiler and other equipment can be disconnected for repair without shutting off the entire supply system.

"Another recommendation is that all supply pipes be pitched toward one point and have a valve near a floor drain so that pipes can be drained easily without calling a plumber."

Anchors Hold Wood To Concrete

The homeowner who wants to convert his basement into a recreation room may be perplexed as to how to fasten building board to the concrete walls.

This is done by attaching furring strips of 1x2-inch lumber to the walls by fiber or lead anchors. Holes are drilled three feet apart in the concrete with a star drill and the anchors lightly tapped in to place. The furring strips are then attached to these anchors with long wood screws which cause the anchors to expand and hold the strips firmly in place.

Guest speaker, Dr. Douglas Silverton, professor of literature at Harper College, of New York State University, Endicott, N. Y., will then deliver his commencement address.

Following Dr. Silverton's talk, the audience will sing "America," and Dr. Joseph F. Noonan, president of the college, will confer the degrees upon the graduates. Rev. Eaton will close the program by giving benediction.

At 5 p. m. today, there will be a reception and buffet supper, given by the president at his residence.

Second Phase Of Traffic Survey Starts Today In Two Boroughs; Nearly 17,000 Cars Checked

First stage of the traffic survey being conducted around and in the Stroudsburgs by the Bureau of Highway Planning, Pennsylvania Highway department was completed during the night. Second, or inner cordon stage, will start in the two boroughs today.

George Germer, supervisor of some 40 interviewers, said that total cars stopped for interviews of operators numbered 16,831 through yesterday.

All of these first stage interviews regarding origin and destination of traffic, purpose of trips, types of vehicles, etc. were taken in the territory immediately outside of Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg.

Germer made it clear yesterday that the 16,831 cars contacted for interviews would be boosted by the final outside perimeter count taken throughout last night.

He said that figure does not include the vehicles counted by the automatic counters along major highways which have operated throughout week-ends when traffic was very heavy, as well as throughout the week.

Interviews were taken only Monday through Friday by the staff of 40 men, but survey officials collect counts for the full seven days from the automatic machine counters.

Germer said he will throw his force of 40 men for the inside-the-borough count into action today. This study will be the same as the outside perimeter interviews and there will also be a study of parking.

Roughly the survey within the boroughs will encompass the entire principal shopping districts to a depth of two or three streets.

The survey was undertaken by the Bureau of Planning at the request of Stroudsburg Council. The council agreed to pay $500 towards the survey in order to determine the feasibility of a traffic by-pass for the borough, and whether data gathered warranted participation in cost of such a bypass by the Federal Bureau of Roads.

Data now being collected is not only being filed with the State planners, but the final conclusions and recommendations will be submitted to the Federal Bureau of Roads.

How did the turps get so high?

As every painter knows, turpentine is way up in price, too. It now costs more than three times what it did in 1939.

But don't blame the people who make it or those who sell it. Blame the dollar. It just won't buy what it used to.

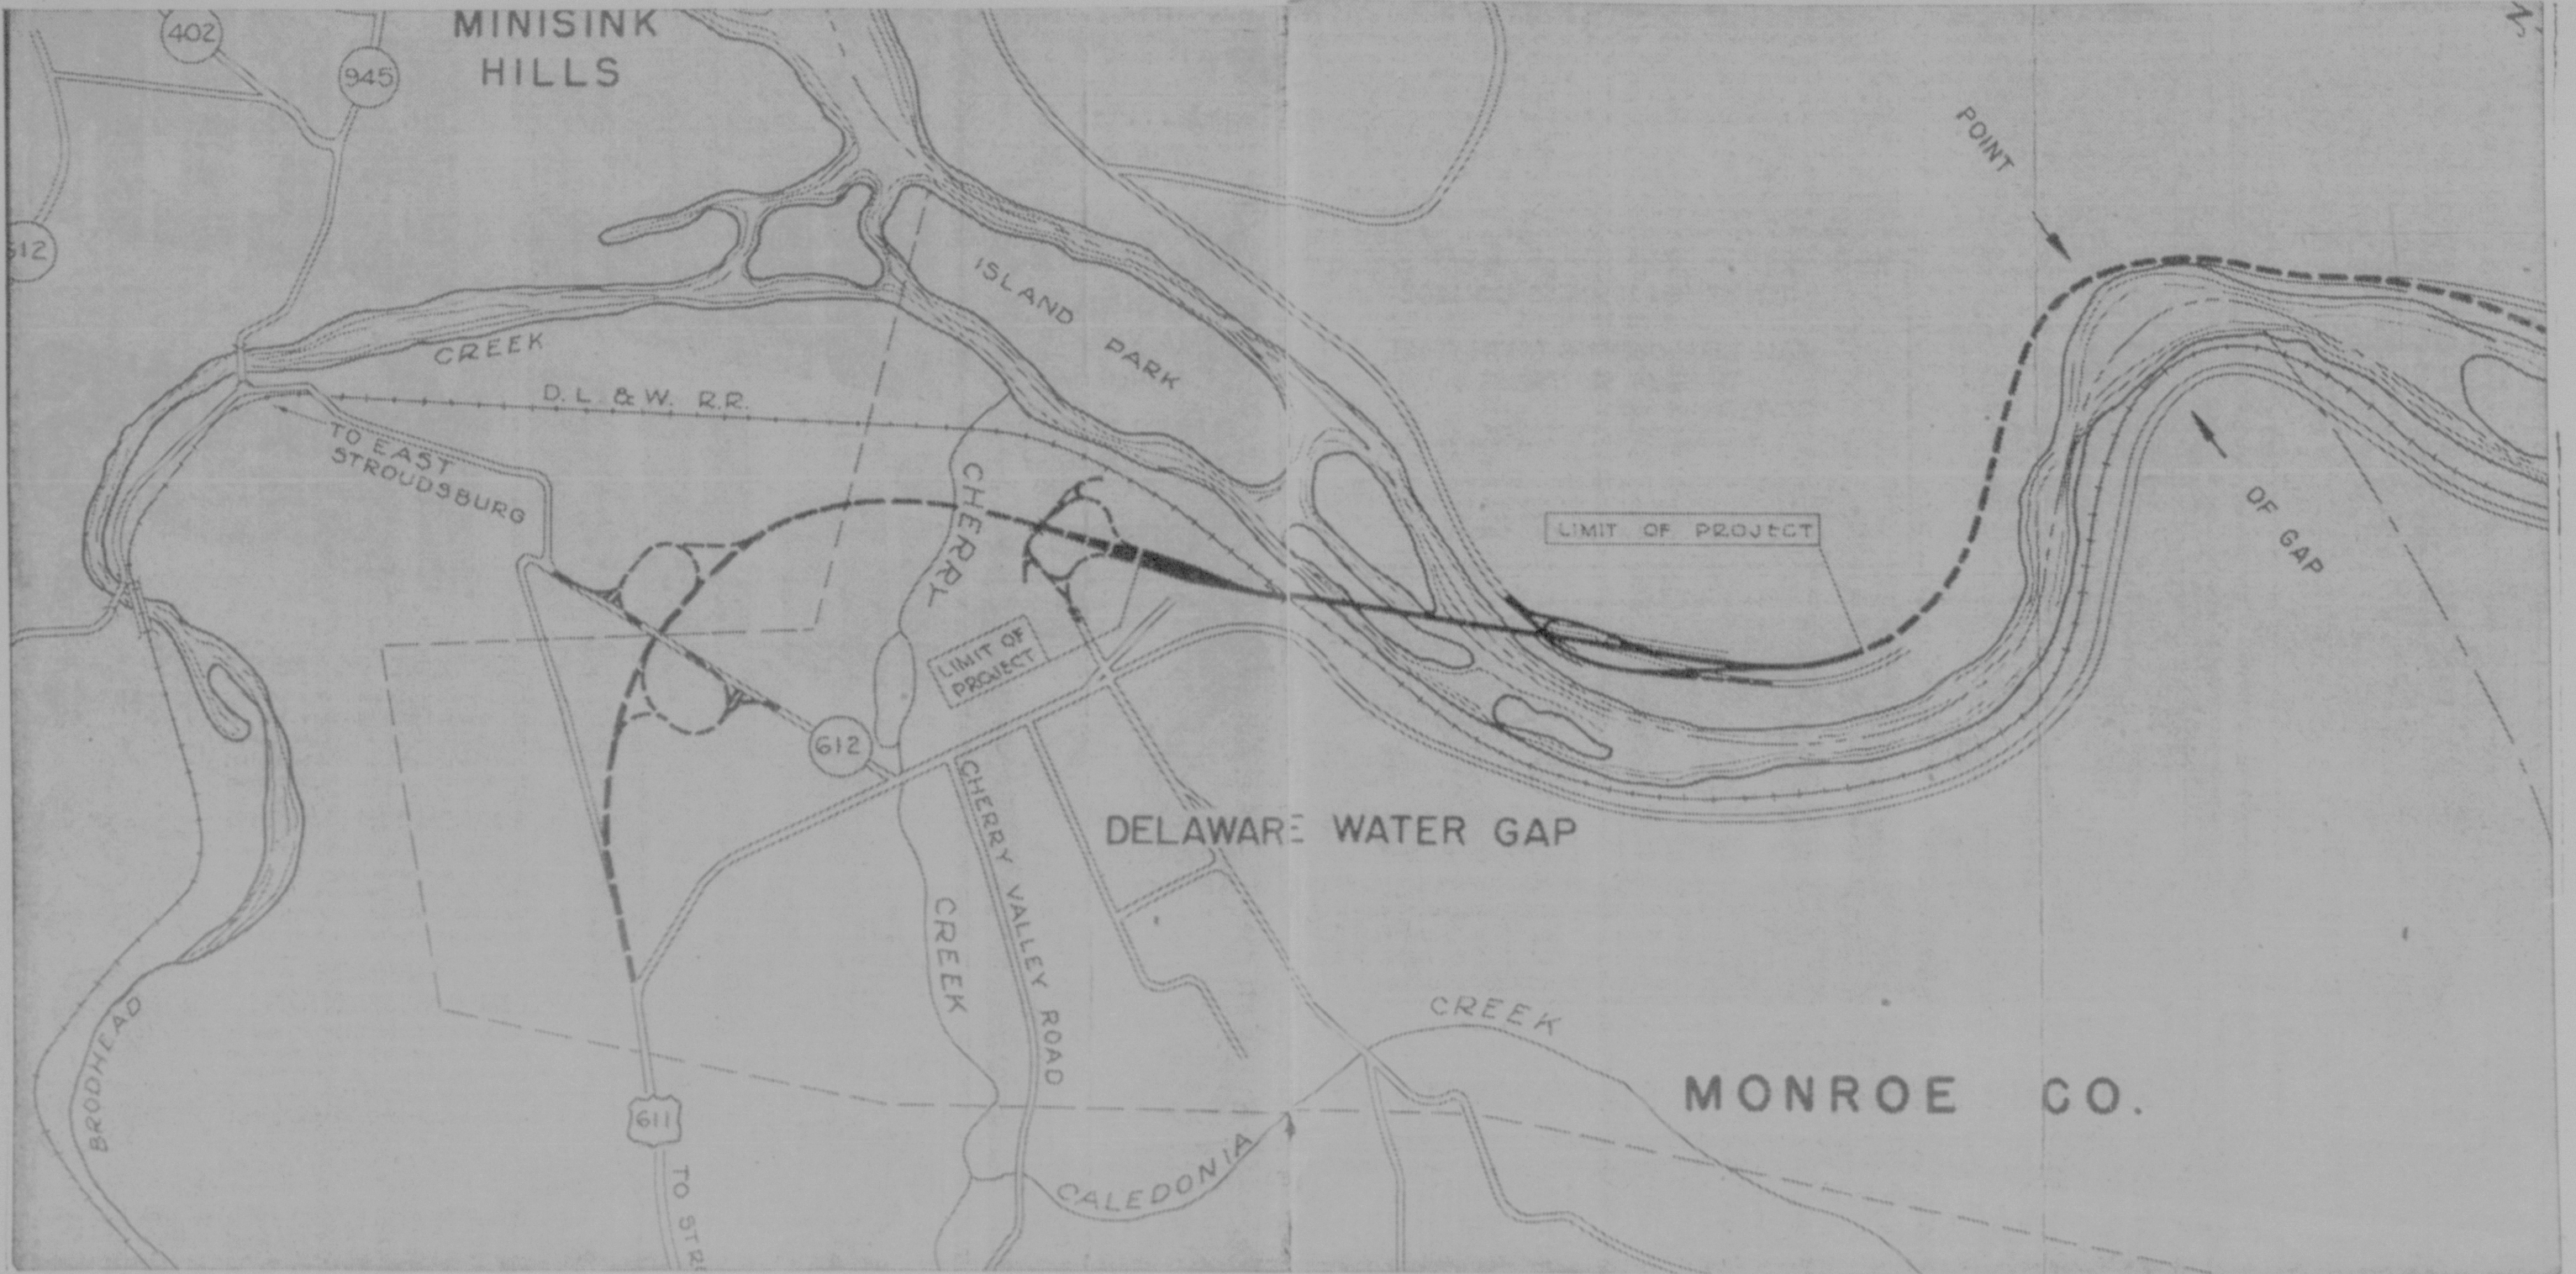

Most certainly, we're feeling the squeeze in the telephone business. This year, in Pennsylvania, we'll spend more than $235,000 on painting; and that's just a small fraction of our operating expenses. Costs keep going up all along the line.

Yet we're providing good, constantly improving telephone service at rates that remain surprisingly low. Telephone rates could go considerably higher... and still telephone service would represent a smaller part of the family budget than it did 10 years ago.

Water Gap, Portland Bridge Diagrams, Approaches

indicates a traffic inter-change connection with the New Jersey "freeway." The freeway, denoted by broken black lines, runs from end of bridge at Kittatinny Beach to Columbia, N.J. Actually a super-highway, the freeway will be constructed by the New Jersey Highway department which has already declared the road a freeway. At the Delaware Water Gap end of the bridge, broken lines show a traffic inter-change with continuing broken line to Route 611 near Water Gap cemetery, tracing course of the big highway approach which is the responsibility of the Pennsylvania Department of Highways. Note there is also a traffic interchange at Route 612, road between Delaware Water Gap and Minisink Hills, to permit traffic to leave the bridge approach for Route 612 and traffic from Route 612 to get on approach leading to the bridge. This is also part of the Pennsylvania Highway department's project. Total cost of the bridge structure will be $9,300,000. Bids will be opened on piers and other sub-structure at the commission's office in Trenton, N.J. on September 14. Other phases of the project will be bid in an orderly construction process.

struction starts with traffic interchange connecting Rt. 8 in New Jersey as well as the old covered bridge at Portland, also denoted by heavy black lines, shows another traffic inter-change at the New Jersey exit of the $3,600,000 structure the commission will build across the Delaware. On the Pennsylvania side heavy black lines show the commission proposes to provide inter-changes with Rt. 987 extending to Delaware Bridge at Delaware, N.J. Broken black lines indicate Pennsylvania Highway department's probable highway connecting link from a point on Rt. 611 on the Mt. Bethel side of Portland. Bids for the sub-structure, or piers on this bridge will also be opened September 14 at the commission's offices in Trenton, N.J. Other bids will be asked and opened as construction progresses.

Residents of Columbia, N.J. are making plans for a public mass meeting with New Jersey Highway engineers to learn where the approaches for the freeway and bridge in the vicinity will be built. Major interest in this meeting around Portland will attract many people from that community.

Postal Workers Urged For C. D.

Washington (AP)—Senator Dirksen (R-Ill.) suggested yesterday that the postal service should become the backbone of the civil defense corps.

Dirksen said in a Senate speech that if Congress approves a $335,000,000 administration bill for a civil defense program a lot of the money will be wasted.

In Chicago, he said, 6,000 postal workers have volunteered to man a civil defense organization in which the city is divided into zones and districts, with first aid stations and other facilities for possible emergency.

"I would respectfully suggest," he said, "that instead of setting up a separate and costly organization which at the moment seems to be without a realistic or well-coordinated plan, why not utilize the postal service in every city and town in the land?"

Enlisted Men Fire Rocket 132 Miles

White Sands, N. M., (AP)—Enlisted men yesterday fired a V-2 rocket within three miles of the world's record.

The 28,000-pound rebuilt German missile went 132 miles above the earth.

Yesterday's firing compares with 135 miles set August 7 by an American-built Viking rocket.

Enlisted men not only handled all details of the rocket firing yesterday but also assembled the V-2 from captured parts. The V-2 carried no payload of instruments and was a test for performance only.

don't SWELTER when you can FREEZE!

Old-fashioned canning time is hot work, hard-work time... for days on end. Why swelter in a stifling kitchen when you can preserve those same foods more easily, quicker and better in your home freezer?

Freezing is so simple...and so much safer. No hot jars to handle. No long weary boiling time. No tiresome sterilizing. No breakage problem! No "roomful" of utensils. No storage problem.

But look how much faster freezing is! Take corn on the cob: husk the ears...scald them six to ten minutes...wrap them...and freeze! By contrast, old-fashioned canning of corn on the cob requires pressure cooking for at least eighty minutes...and more than twice that long otherwise! Or lima beans: To freeze, simply scald one to two minutes...box and freeze. To can, you must first pre-cook and then pressure-cook for 45 minutes...and finally pack-away in sterilized jars, over which you've wasted many more hot minutes.

See your electrical appliance retailer today. Order your electric freezer now while there's still plenty of time to take advantage of this summer's big food crops and the season's lowest food prices.

HOME FREEZING FACTS

Corn is highly adaptable to freezing at home, either cut or on the cob. Cut corn takes up less space and is the easiest to prepare for freezing. By following the simple directions, either way, you can have tender, peak season corn year-round.

East Bangor Tangles With Roseto Tonight

Roseto—East Bangor, regular season champion of the Blue Mountain League, will have its back to the wall tonight when Manager Paul "Pete" LaBar and company invade Roseto Park to tangle with Roseto A. A., number three club in the final standings at 6.

East Bangor, still smarting from last Sunday's 11-1 lacing at the hands of Roseto, will attempt to even the score at one contest each, as the two clubs lock horns here before one of the largest crowds of the season.

Mike Renaldo, manager of the Roseto aggregation, announced last night that he might pitch Bob "Lefty" Muhr again, if the veteran southpaw is ready for action.

Hurler

Paul "Pete" LaBar, East Bangor pilot, will undoubtedly counter with Ray Parsons, who won eight games and didn't suffer a loss during the regular campaign. If Parsons doesn't take the hill against the Roseto contingent, the veteran Jim Dietz will undoubtedly receive the starting nod.

Roseto's lineup will feature the same players that have carried the bulk of the load all season. Dick Pritchard will lead off and will hold down the shortstop berth, while the remainder of the lineup and batting order will feature Anthony "Sunny" Franchino, second base; Ed Wodnick, third base; Bob Stevens, catching; Renaldo, first base; Joe D'Imperio, right field; Al "Red" Nerino, left field; Vince DeFranco, center field, and Muhr, pitching. DeFranco and Pritchard were the offensive stars last Sunday.

A victory for Roseto will send the Renaldomeni into battle with Pocono A. C. on Sunday, but an East Bangor win will prolong the semi-final round until Sunday.

Pocono A. C. reached the final round by winning two straight from West Bangor, in their half of the semi-final playoff session.

Sawyer To Retain Managerial Post

Philadelphia AP—All rumors to the contrary, Eddie Sawyer will be back to manage the Philadelphia Phillies next season.

This was disclosed yesterday by an authoritative source who declined permission to use his name. Rumors have persisted for several weeks here that Sawyer might be moved up to general manager and that the Phils would seek someone to replace him as field pilot.

National League champions last year, the Phils have floundered badly all season and are now fighting for a place in the first division. Attendance is off, too. Up to now, the Phils' paid admissions are 250,000 below the total of last year.

Bowling Meeting

Commercial "A" League bowlers are urged to attend a pre-season meeting of that circuit at the Harmon alleys tonight. The business session is listed for 8:15.

Avila's Circuit Blow Enables Indians To Win

Cleveland AP—Cleveland's Indians, still persisting in their right to the 1951 American league pennant, took 14 innings yesterday to get ahead of the Washington Senators and finally won, 6 to 5.

Bobby Avila, the Indians' flashy second baseman, whacked his first hit of the day in the fourteenth, a home run off Sandolito Consuegra that soared over the left field fence.

The blow, kept the Indians in first place with some daylight to spare between them and the New York Yankees.

And the Yanks are coming today, for a three-game series, the most important of the season so far.

Good Pitching

Until Avila slammed his homer, Consuegra permitted only one hit and no runs, and he entered the game in the eighth with the bases loaded and nobody out.

Steve Gromek was tough, too. He retired the first 12 batters to face him and allowed only three hits in all, setting Washington down to its eleventh straight loss and giving Cleveland a three game sweep.

The healthy swats were made off the starters, Bob Chakales, Indian rookie, and Julio Moreno. Dale Mitchell forced the game into extra innings, in the seventh, slamming a three-run homer to tie the score at 5-5. It was Mitchell's tenth, this year.

Mickey Vernon tagged Chakales for singles in the first and third innings for two runs. Then Cleveland caught up on Luke Easter's nineteenth homer in the fourth. In the same inning, Al Rosen scored from third after Gil Coan caught Ray Boone's line drive.

Giants Stretch Streak To Eleven Straight

New York AP—The New York Giants defeated the Cincinnati Reds, 4-3, yesterday, to capture their eleventh straight victory. It was their longest winning streak since 1938.

A double by Whitey Lockman with two out in the eighth inning scored Alvin Dark with the run that broke a 3-3 tie and gave the Giants their fourth straight win over Redleg ace Ewell Blackwell.

Yankees Lose Full Length

Detroit AP—The second place New York Yankees lost valuable ground in the American league race yesterday as they dropped a 7-6 decision to the Detroit Tigers in a 12-inning marathon that lasted nearly four hours.

The setback, clinaxed by Johnny Groth's game winning single with one out in the twelfth, came after the Yankees pushed over four first inning runs and appeared to be on their way to an easy triumph.

A win would have enabled them to keep pace with the league leading Cleveland Indians who won yesterday.

Instead, the Yankees found themselves two full games off the pace as they headed for Cleveland and the opener of an important three-game series today.

Homers

Longtime Yankee jinx Pat Mullin and former Yankee Dick Kryhoski powered home runs that wiped out the Yankees' early lead as Detroit fought back to tie things up at six all in the eighth.

The game up to that time had been a very loose affair with pitchers being extra generous with walks. In all, the seven pitchers who saw service issued 16 walks over the distance.

The lion's share of Detroit's laurels went to relief pitcher Virgil Trucks, fourth Bengal hurler and the eventual winner (7-7).

Trucks struck out Joe Collins in the ninth with the bases loaded for the final out, struck out Gerry Coleman in the tenth with a potential winning run on second and fanned the side in the eleventh as he held the New Yorkers scoreless.

Allie Reynolds, like his predecessors Jack Kramer and Tom Morgan, was stingy with Tiger hits and the Detroiters had trouble with him from the time he appeared in the eighth until the twelfth inning opened.
